To whom it may concern,

I am writing to express my strong support for the continuation of the mentoring service and to highlight the positive difference it has made to our young person who has accessed this support.

The mentoring service has provided a safe, consistent and trusted space where the young person has been able to talk openly, feel listened to, and receive encouragement from a positive role model. This young person has been navigating important changes in family dynamics, education, relationships, confidence and emotional development. Having access to a reliable mentor has helped this young person feel valued, understood and supported during a key stage in their life.

The mentoring relationship has helped them develop practical strategies for managing emotions, building resilience and responding more positively to challenges in their wider life.

The service has also had a positive impact on the young person's behaviour, relationships and engagement. Regular mentoring sessions has supported the young person to think about communication, respect, problem-solving and decision-making and this has contributed to a more positive attitude. Mentoring has offered emotional support and has also helped the young person set goals and believe that progress is possible.

The consistency of the support has been particularly important, so it is important that the mentoring service continues to make a lasting difference. Continuing this service would allow this young person to keep developing the skills, confidence and resilience they need to thrive, so we strongly recommend that the mentoring service continues.

Yours faithfully,

Halima Teniola
